Four stages, one continuous journey.

Children do not move between rooms here so much as grow through them. Each stage carries forward the relationships and routines of the one before it, and the ratio widens only as a child needs us less.

1–2y

Infants

Nurturing first connections in a calm, responsive nursery.

The first row — worked slowly, evenly, stitches held close together.

2–3y

Toddlers

Curious explorers building independence through play.

The second row — the hand steadies, and the stitches begin to travel.

Growing together

We believe children thrive when families and educators work together. Through ongoing communication, developmental observations, and shared celebrations of progress, we build strong partnerships that support every child's growth, wellbeing, and learning journey.

Ongoing Communication

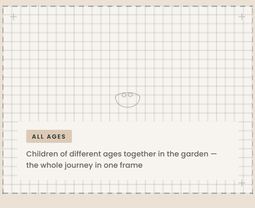
Daily updates and open conversation between families and educators.

Developmental Observations

Regular, individual insight into how your child is growing.

Shared Celebrations

Milestones, big and small, celebrated together.



ALL AGES

Children of different ages together in the garden — the whole journey in one frame
